

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Too Much Information*, an Original Half-Hour Comedic Panel Series Featuring Some of Canada's Brightest Comedic Talent Premieres on Super Channel November 18

EDMONTON (October 24, 2014) – *Too Much Information, an original half-hour comedic panel series featuring some of the best comedic talent Canada has to offer, premieres on Super Channel, Canada's only national English pay-television network, on Tuesday, November 18 at 11 p.m. ET.

Editor's Note: Please be advised that this premiere date and time replaces any previously announced references to date and time.

Too Much Information hosted by Norm Sousa, is a cheeky, no-holds-barred, comedic panel show where two teams of comedians use their collective charm and humour to rise above their opponents in a battle of wits. The panelists will change from episode to episode but the funny is constant.

No topic is off the table and free comic reign is encouraged. Drawing from Canada's wealth of comedic talent, the 39 episode first season features an array of over 30 hilarious panelists including Carla Collins, Pat Thornton, Justin Landry, Geri Hall, Dave Merheje, Fraser Young, Naomi Snieckus, Ron Sparks, Lauren Ash, Nicole Arbour and many more.

Equal parts silly, witty, titillating and crass, reminiscent of the popular UK shows Never Mind the Buzzcocks and 8 out of 10 Cats, Too Much Information promises funny stories, sharp one-liners, odd and absurd asides and scathing swipes at the world. Jokes, personal anecdotes and taking the piss out of the world at large, and sometimes one another, is all fair play.

Adult and edgy, each episode is structured around a theme, like sex, religion or celebrity. Norm strategically guides the six comedic panelists through four distinct rounds for an entertaining and irreverent chat show offering a perfect storm of stories, tom-foolery and one-liners.

Too Much Information is produced by Toronto based Lone Eagle Entertainment in association with Mindset Television.
